

One Fall

Jadzia Romaniec
Ottawa, Canada

This painting embodies the idea of the self as having stumbled or fallen. It is also the same self which observes the fall and is present to give support. There is a great deal of inner work, self-awareness, and self-support required in mental health when one is at low or difficult points. I have seen the power of personal expression in both communicating with others and exploring the self.